 APPENDIX A Standard Data Elements for Tribal Identifier

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Data Standard:	Tribal Identifier
Description:	The names and codes necessary to constitute consistent and unambiguous identification of federally-recognized tribal entities of interest to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and its partners.
Requirements:	<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Managers of information systems to which the standard applies must ensure that these systems provide the tribal names or codes as specified in the standard when tribal information is exchanged.2. System managers are encouraged to modify applications, regulations, collection requests, and Federal Register Notices where necessary to implement the standard.
Implementation	Applicable Systems: December 31, 2005, or as part of normal reengineering schedule.
Date:	The standard applies to Agency information systems or collection requests that exchange tribal identification information with Agency or partner systems.

BUSINESS RULES FOR THE TRIBAL IDENTIFIER DATA STANDARD

1. THE STANDARD

- a. The standard specifies the set of tribal names and codes necessary to constitute consistent and unambiguous identification of federally-recognized American Indian and Alaska Native entities of interest to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and its information exchange partners.
- b. The purpose of the standard is to ensure a means of uniquely identifying federally recognized Tribal entities across agencies, programs and levels of government, so that information can be clearly exchanged.
- c. The standard consists of two data elements: Tribal Name and Tribal Code. Each of which is defined and associated with a list of permissible values (tribal names and codes). Tribal Name is associated with a list of all official names of tribal entities recognized and eligible for funding and services from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) by virtue of their status as Indian tribes. The Tribal Identifier Standard adopted BIA criteria of tribal entity identification (federally recognized tribes) and is not intended for the identification of geographic, demographic or economic tribal areas.
- d. The standard data elements and permissible values (tribal names and codes) are presented in Appendix A and are recorded in EPA's Environmental Data Registry (EDR) at <http://www.epa.gov/edr/>.

2. DEFINITIONS

- a. The EPA Environmental Data Registry (EDR) is the central repository and reference tool for Agency data elements and other objects, such as business rules.
- b. The Environmental Data Standards Council (EDSC) is a partnership among EPA, States, and Tribal Nations to develop and agree upon data standards for environmental information collection and exchange. The EDSC seeks to promote efficient sharing of environmental information between State, EPA, and Tribal partners providing data standards as a basis for new data exchange and data integration activities.

- c. An Information System Manager is a staff person responsible and accountable for management of information systems, both environmental media specific and administrative, which are managed from EPA Headquarters or in offsite locations, i.e., laboratories.
- d. A Tribal Entity is an Indian tribe within the contiguous 48 states and native entities within the State of Alaska recognized and eligible to receive services from the United States BIA.
- e. A Tribal Identifier Data Standard Steward is the person or organization responsible for monitoring the currency and relevancy of the standard to the Agency.
- f. A Tribal Identifier Data Steward is a person or function at the program system, regional, or state level that is accountable for the overall quality of tribal identifier data. Tribal Identifier Data Stewards ensure the proper application of the standard and identify and communicate issues to the Tribal Identifier Data Standard Steward for action.

3. APPLICABILITY

- a. The EPA Tribal Identifier Data Standard applies to all Agency information systems that exchange tribal identifier information on federally-recognized tribes with other Agency systems or with partner systems. The standard does not constrain the information an agency may choose to collect, nor does it constitute a reporting requirement.
- b. This standard applies to systems that maintain information on federally recognized (i.e., political) tribal entities. It is not intended for systems that solely identify tribal entities on a geographic, demographic or economic basis (e.g., tribal lands).
- c. This standard does not apply to systems not presently in use (i.e., retired systems), although managers for such systems are encouraged to meet the standard if they believe that information from such systems will be integrated with information from other Agency or partner systems.
- d. The data standard applies to any data exchange between nodes on EPA's Exchange Network.
- e. EPA encourages state and tribal partners and stakeholders to adopt this standard.

State partners and stakeholders are required to adhere to this standard only when the work plan of the Environmental Performance Partnership Agreement, or the appropriate grant program agreements, includes mechanisms for adopting the standard, such as Trading Partner Agreements. These agreements are typically reached between the regional offices or the program offices and the states or stakeholders.

4. DATA REQUIREMENTS

- a. Agency information systems that exchange tribal identification information must, at a minimum, use the standard permissible value list for their Tribal Name or Tribal Code data elements.
- b. Standard data elements are described in detail in Appendix A.

5. PROCESSING

- a. Every manager of an information system to which the standard applies, based on Section 3, must ensure that the system provides the tribal names or codes as specified in the standard (see Appendix A) when tribal information is exchanged.
- b. System managers are encouraged to modify applications, regulations, collection requests, and Federal Register Notices where necessary to implement the standard.
- c. This standard applies to data elements pertaining to federally-recognized (i.e., political) tribal entities. It is not intended for data elements that solely identify tribal entities on a geographic, demographic or economic basis (e.g., tribal lands).

6. ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

- a. EPA's Chief Information Officer (CIO) will:
 - i. Ensure adherence to these business rules and will be responsible for resolving conflicts and issues relating to these business rules, including applicability of the standard and waiver requests.

- ii. Issue waivers from conformance with this standard in accordance with the procedures identified in Section 8 of these business rules.
- b. EPA's Office of Information Collection (OIC) will:
 - i. Oversee the Agency process and operating procedures to ensure conformance with this standard.
 - ii. Provide guidance and technical assistance to program offices, their Regional and State counterparts, and the regulated community in meeting the requirements of this standard.
 - iii. Appoint a Tribal Identifier Data Standard Steward for the Tribal Identifier Data Standard.
 - iv. Report any conflicts to the CIO and resolve those conflicts based on CIO guidance.
- c. EPA Program Senior Information Resources Management Officers (SIRMO) and Regional Information Resource Management (IRM) Branch Chiefs will:
 - i. Promote conformance with this standard.
 - ii. Prepare applications from system managers for waivers from this standard and submit them to the CIO.
 - iii. Ensure that new and reengineered systems are designed in conformance with the standard.
- d. Information System Managers will:
 - i. Ensure that any applicable data elements in their information systems conforms with this standard.
 - ii. Work collaboratively with the OIC on continuing standards development and implementation.
 - iii. Identify and bring forward potential conflicts between these business rules, the underlying standards, and program information systems needs.

- iv. Prepare and submit for approval waiver requests when a standard cannot be implemented in their systems.
- e. The Tribal Identifier Data Standard Steward, or an authorized delegate, will:
 - i. Work in collaboration with the BIA, which will be responsible for maintaining the official list of tribal names and codes according to their established criteria.
 - ii. Review maintenance changes to the standard made by the EDSC for Agency implementation based on relevancy to Agency business needs.
 - iii. Make EDSC aware of any Agency concerns relating to this standard.
- f. Tribal Identifier Data Stewards will manage tribal entity data for EPA program systems.

7. IMPLEMENTATION

- a. Managers of Agency information systems that exchange tribal identifier information will implement this standard no later than December 31, 2005. System managers and regions will include state partners in the implementation planning process for the standard.
- b. System managers will incorporate this standard into the development cycle of all new and existing Agency information systems where the standard applies (as defined in Section 3).

8. PROVISION FOR WAIVER

OIC has developed a waiver process that identifies key elements of the waiver application process; specifies and defines waiver application procedures; and identifies the implications of nonconformance. The AProcedures for Requesting a Data Standard Conformance Waiver@ are available on the EDR Web site.

9. MAINTENANCE

- a. The standard shall be reviewed annually by the EDSC. The Tribal Identifier Data Standard Steward shall make the EDSC aware of any Agency concerns relating to the standard.

- b. Any changes to the standard and business rules will be regularly updated and published in the EDR by OIC.
- c. EPA, BIA, and ECOS will maintain an ongoing institutional mechanism to make needed revisions.
- d. The official list of tribal names will be maintained by BIA according to their established processes and procedures, which allow Tribes to petition for changes in the name or composition of the Tribe.

APPENDIX A

Standard Data Elements for Tribal Identifier

Standard Data Elements for Tribal Identifier

The Environmental Data Standards Council (EDSC) chartered the Tribal Identifier Data Standard Action Team to identify and define the major areas of tribal identification information and to develop a data standard that could be used for the exchange of tribal identification data among environmental agencies and other entities. The purpose of the standard is to provide a common vocabulary or lexicon and to encourage tribal entity identification uniformity across information systems, so that information about functionally similar activities and/or instruments can be shared. The Tribal Identifier Standard adopted the Bureau of Indian Affairs criteria of tribal entity identification (federally-recognized tribes) and is not intended for the identification of geographic, demographic or economic tribal areas. This standard is not intended to constrain what information an agency chooses to collect, nor does it constitute a reporting requirement. It merely defines a standardized way to organize and exchange key information if agencies choose to exchange that information. This State/EPA data standard was approved by the EDSC on August 21, 2002 and by the Agency on January 31, 2003.

The Tribal Identifier Data Standard, as presented below, contains a data element matrix that includes name, definition, format (maximum length and data type). The Notes column is used to record explanatory text relating to the definition and use of the data element. Following the data element matrix, is a standard list of tribal codes, tribal names, and value meaning descriptions. The most recent list of Federally Recognized Tribes was published in the Federal Register Notice Part IV, Volume 67, Number 134, pages 46327-46333, dated July 12, 2002.
